Response: Education: Start funding education again. Funding has been continually cut over the past 10 years causing subpar education, increased local school taxes, and driving student loan debt to record highs. Re-invest in PA businesses: Develop policy that makes Pennsylvania more attractive for start-ups and recent graduates. Pennsylvania has one of the best systems of higher education, yet we struggle to keep talented students in the state after graduation. Support our Unions: Work to pass policies that support///

Qualifications: I am Latinx woman, a single parent of 4 biological children, one of which was a victim of the school to prison pipeline, and a warrior for my community. My lived experiences have pushed me to run to be the State House Representative for the 134th new blended///

Response: The 134th district is ready for a bold progressive, who will not toe the line of true radical reform, instead will be a fearless leader for their district. As one of the first women/LGBTQ state representative I will propose legislation to make discrimination based on sexual orientation or gender identity a law. Qualifications: Current 4 term State Representative; Member House Appropriations Committee, Sub-Committee Chair of Fiscal Matters; Sub-Committee Chair of Utilities; past member of Allentown City Council including leadership positions as President and Vice President; past Chairman of LANTA

Response: Funding for public education is my top priority. As a parent of two Allentown SD students, we see every day the challenges an underfunded school district faces. We must enact the fair funding formula as Allentown SD along with East Penn and Salisbury are not getting their fair share of funding from Harrisburg. I have been a leader on issues surrounding renewable energy and critical infrastructure including passing a historic investment in telecommunications. I have///

Response: My priority would be to take care of what we have already before we spend a cent on any new programs because the state is not doing a very good job now. We need to do better with our roads, bridges, schools, state parks, state police (more funding, more police), etc. In general, anything that can make the state more efficient will save money. I believe these are nonpartisan issues. I believe the state should///
